Upcoming Events

Join the fun with adaptive Line Dancing at Papillion Landing on March 19th at 1pm. Easy steps, great music and good vibes. This event is open to the community and adapted to all abilities.

On April 1st at 4pm Moving Veterans Forward will hold a special ribbon cutting to celebrate 15 years assisting veterans in our community.

On April 11th the Papillion Public Library will host the 4th Annual Librarycon 2026. The event will be held at Papillion Landing from 9am to 2pm. The event is free and open to the public.

Information Report

The Papillion Police Department held its 8th Annual Awards Ceremony on March 1st to recognize excellent work done by our Police Department employees in 2025. Congrats to everyone, especially our Officer of the Year Nicholas Brobst and our Civilian of the Year Kimberly Miller. We are incredibly proud of everyone who is a part of this department.

Congratulations to the City of Papillion's full-time Employee of the Year Adam Boehmer and part-time Employee of the Year Brynn Shimel. Adam is a Police Officer, DARE Officer and Community Outreach Liaison and Brynn is the Public Safety Community Outreach Coordinator.

Councilmembers and City Staff attended the Papillion Downtown Business Association Annual State of the City meeting on March 4th.

A 10th Honor Wall was recently installed at Veterans Park, adding to the 1,200 names already commemorated at the site. All veterans with Sarpy County ties are eligible to have their name on the wall. To learn more or dedicate a plaque, visit www.PapillionVeteransPark.com.

The City is contracting with Eyman Plumbing to replace 500 water meters within our service area. Eyman Plumbing will contact customers receiving a new water meter by phone or letter to coordinate a time for installation. New water meters are funded by the Meter Replacement Fee, a small fee all customers pay on their monthly bill, so replacement does not require a large one-time expense.

The Fire Department has been training at their fire training facility at the Public Works Department on Sundays in March. The final training session is March 22nd.

The Water Department has begun their annual hydrant flushing in order to maintain and keep our water system clean and to ensure our hydrants are working properly for fire protection. The flushings will continue until mid-May.

The Papillion Police Departments public parking lot will be closed due to construction until the completion of the project. Parking has been moved to the west side of the building.

The City of Papillion is launching a project this month to stabilize a 2,000-foot stretch of eroding creek bed that has significantly affected residential backyards along Valley Street. To prevent further damage from erosion, engineers will install boulders and steel reinforcements while eventually restoring the area with native prairie grasses. The grant-funded project is expected to be completed by November 2026.

Veterans Park in Papillion adds 10th honor wall to recognize Sarpy County service members

Any service member with a connection to Sarpy County can have their name added to the wall. Neighbors can also purchase plaques to dedicate to loved ones.

PAPILLION, Neb. (KMTV)— Any service member with a connection to Sarpy County can have their name added to the wall. Neighbors can also purchase plaques to dedicate to loved ones.

- Veterans Park in Papillion added its 10th honor wall, continuing growth that began with two walls in 2015.
- Any service member with a Sarpy County connection can have their name added to the wall; plaques can also be purchased for loved ones.
- Army veteran Ron Hernandez said the park gives veterans a place to reflect and ensures future generations can see their legacy.

Army veteran Ron Hernandez didn't know his name was going on the wall at Veterans Park in Papillion — his family surprised him with the tribute.

"It was given to me as a gift, my family did it I did not know," Hernandez said.

He is one of many neighbors whose name is displayed at the park, which began with two walls in 2015 and has continued to grow. The city of Papillion recently added a 10th honor wall to the site.

"Every year we seem to add something to it that seems to be more popular than the year before, but I also know with all the retirees here they truly respect and honor this park in a way we don't see with many other parks," Tony Gowan, Parks and Facilities Director for the city of Papillion, said.

Hernandez said the park holds special meaning not only for veterans, but for their families — and that watching it continue to grow signals a lasting commitment to keeping veterans' legacies alive.

"For me it means a lot, because my grandkids or great grandkids will hear my stories, read the journals I wrote while I was in service and on my deployments, they can actually come down here and see my name as well," Hernandez said.

Any service member with a connection to Sarpy County can have their name added to the wall. Neighbors can also purchase plaques to dedicate to loved ones. For information on how to get a name on the wall, click here.

Papillion engineers to stabilize residential creek

City plan aims to restore backyards lost to decades of erosion along Valley Street

Residents along Valley Street in Papillion have watched their backyards slowly disappear over the years as a nearby creek erodes their property.

OMAHA, Neb. (WOWT) - Residents along Valley Street in Papillion have watched their backyards slowly disappear over the years as a nearby creek erodes their property. Now, the city has a plan to stabilize the waterway and restore the land.

The creek stretches approximately 2,000 feet behind homes on Valley Street. Linda Placzek, who has lived in her Papillion home for more than 20 years, said the erosion has worsened significantly since she moved in.

"My backyard went beyond the fence, and there was grass there and I could open my gate and take my mower, and mow the grass to keep all of that under control," Placzek said. "Since we've had this erosion take place, now I can't open the gate because there's like two inches of dirt left!"

Safety concerns prompt city action

Placzek said the eroded bank has become a safety hazard for her and her neighbors.

"I don't want anyone to walk through this gate and fall into the creek or get hurt or anything," she said. "There's nothing to stop it, and I think it's gotten deeper."

Papillion City Engineer Alex Evans said erosion along the creek has reached levels that threaten nearby infrastructure and properties.

"Especially with the trees being undermined by that erosion, and if those fall over and dam up an area — that channel's going to find a way around that and it's going to erode something else," Evans said. "It might undermine another water main. It might go into somebody's backyard. So it's...could be a problem."

Stabilization work begins this month

Work is set to begin this month. The project will include removing the existing tree line and installing boulders and steel underground along the creek bank behind Placzek's property.

Residents asked the city to preserve as much vegetation behind their homes as possible. Evans said that request was taken into account after approximately two years of meetings with neighbors.

"We'll grade the area of course and then come back with some native prairie grasses to make it look as natural as possible, but it will be a bit different," Evans said.

Placzek said she is willing to accept the changes in exchange for a safer, larger backyard.

"I'm satisfied with this process. It's taken longer than we initially anticipated, but yeah we're happy and they're able to do what they need to do," she said.

Project funded by grant money

The creek connects to the larger West Papillion Creek, but Evans said this stretch is one of the only areas located so close to a residential neighborhood. The project was funded through grant money, which Evans said contributed to the extended timeline.

Evans said the city monitors all parts of the creek for erosion issues and works to address them as quickly as possible. The project is expected to be completed by November.
